Messrs. Edilors.-A communication appeared in Tuesday's Dispatch which was truthful, well-written, and a convincing argument, to my mind, of the inconsistency in the manner in which the records are allowed however, does not go far enough and point greatest good to the greatest number? out the apparent causes of objection to the bill now before the House. When offered in the Senate I thought it so just a proceeding that there could be no objection whatever to the bill-it was nothing but right to those who proposed to execute the printing and to the State of Virginia which. paid the money. However, as the objection has come, and from an interested quarter, let us examine the matter and ventilate it. I have taken the time and pains to work up this matter, and am determined if this measure is defeated it shall not be because the Legislature is not informed; and in pursuing this matter, I shall state nothing but facts, or what I am led to believe are facts, and if they should prove not to be, they can be corrected by those from whom the objection comes. My motto shall be " Magna est verilas et prevalibal" and "verle sans

The custom prevails of allowing, I believe, a uniform price for the work, irrespective of the locality where executed, and it is given to whom the clerks choose. If this be so, what profits must be made on the of a failure. I speak what I know when I work that is executed out of the city of say that the labors of that famous committee Richmond by the parties doing the work, and who have no competition for it. Since this question has been presented I have examined the Code and find that there is a provision for printing the records of district courts, and in that provision a proviso that "the cost shall not exceed one dollar and fifteen cents per page of fifteen hundred ems." This proviso, I have been informed, is the basis upon which the charges for the this be so, and I have no doubt that it is, it in all three places. But as long as the parwould be sin pletons to charge less. The opposition to a change in the law can only come from the clerks, as they alone are interested beyond the printers doing the Why should they make any opposition?

By no means-the copy is almost invariably writmost indifferent workman can readily work apparently enormous charges? The law says should think not. The index is usually made by the printer, and the clerk never or rarely sees the work until completed and sent to him-certainly this is the Richmond custom. Then, what trouble do they have with the work? None, save to docket the cause and send the record to the printer, and when finished distribute as prescribed by law. If all the foregoing is true, what objection before the committee, says that it would put the price up, and be the means of forming a combination for that purpose. How considerate, and how very reasonable! Well, that might be believed by simpletons, but hardly by thinking men. What says the chairman of the Printing Committee, a practical printer, to such an absurdity? Will he allow such an assertion to pass without contradiction?

Who ever heard of letting work to the lowest responsible bidder being the means of putting it up in price? If this were so could they not now combine, and say we will not work for less than such a price? If ter now stands, it certainly could not if bid ginia readmitted. for. If a man cannot get a portion of a particular work because of favoritism, when to voluntarily cut his throat. This clerk says such a combination exists

Look at the bids for public work under the Superintendent of Public Printing last year. In every instance they were put in without any concert of action by the em- when the little band of True Republicans ployers, and the prices were as varient as there were bids.

Why this condescension by the committee law was changed to the contract system, it was opposed by nearly, if not quite, all the mean L. Q. I say how strange, as now the principal outspoken objection comes from that quarter. Are the three clerks of this court, who control work to the amount of at least one-third as much as all other public work, with these apparent causes of opposition, to be allowed to continue to control, under their present mode, this work, and other officers of the Government who have printing passing through their hands, to be subservient to the contract system? Why, if so, this strange condescension? Why the distinction? Is it because there is more confidence in the clerks of this court than any other or all other officers charged with the disposi-tion of other public work? The Auditor, who pays the bills for printing given out by these clerks, and, amounting to thousands, cannot have a single job done without contract, and all printers are allowed to compete for it.

Perhaps some may say if parties will go to haw they must pay for it. Perhaps so. But, ance (that great barrier to all progress and be it remembered, that one-half, if not more, internal development) be discussed. Also, of the money paid for this work is never returned to the State, but the deficit is made up in the general tax-bill, in which every citizen is interested; and it behooves the ket value, and glory in the misfortunes General Assembly to guard this branch of expenditure for printing, as well as the

It will thus be seen that this branch of pity to sit and eat beans in the midst of expenditure largely exceeds any work done for any other one department of the government. Now, it is a fact well known to the legal fraternity and to practical printers that this work is more important, and requires greater care, than the records, which are conceded common work. As well said in the communication of One who Knows," if the contract system surely when that was abandoned there was more reason for continuing the contract system in the case of the records. Doubtless this communication will be as distasteful to some as it is truthful; but " the should be the legislative motto in these hard times—especially as the Legislature that has control of this matter seems greatly in labor over the ways and means of "raising the

P. S. This article may be followed up by one showing how, at what price, and upon whom this vast patronage is bestowed.

The "New Movement."

To the Editors of the Dispatch : Gentlemen,-The efforts of the Hon. Mr. Stuart not only to establish his own relations to the Committee of Nine, but to prove the effectiveness of the labors of that committee, remind us of the old Latin adage, "Partu riunt montes et nascetur ridiculus mus." That committee was, in truth, a failure, and all that Mr. Stuart can gain by proving his paternal relation to it is that he is the father closed the door and fixed in the minds of congressmen a determination not to take up the case of Virginia at that session.

The men who really obtained the great boon of readmission for our dear old Commonwealth were a little handful of True Republicans of whom we rarely hear mention-Stearns, Gilmer, and others. When this committee reached Washington the most difficult part of their work was to convince regular records have been made. Now, if congressmen that there was no danger of Sandy, et id omne genus, forcingtheir way is tantamount to prescribing the price, and to the front again at that time. They said I have no doubt that it the field was opened plainly, if we could hope that Virginians, to competition, as is the case with other public work, it would be done materially cheaper active part in politics, would now come forward and take hold, we are ready to belp ties doing this work can get $1.15 they them, but we will not do anything to reseat the old stagers. After much labor bestowed by the little band of True Republicans, the matter seemed ten in a plain and uniform manner, and the to culminate to this point: "If we could only feel that you represent the sentiments from it. AN EYE-WITNESS. Queen Victoria's Birthday. THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY,

FAIRFAX COUNTY, VA., March 14, 1874. $ To the Hilitors of the Dispatch: Sirs,-Having learned that the English settlers in Virginia intend celebrating Queen

Victoria's birthday in Richmond on May 24th, we in Fairfax county have met and passed resolutions of approval and hearty cooperation. Such a commemoration will exert a beneficial influence on both countries. Allow me, then, through your columns to suggest a few topics which might be discussed with profit on that occasion. Let the attention of those at home be called to the superior advantages this State offers in its grazing facilities to the sheep-breeder. and in its immense water-power to manufacturers of woollen and cloth goods. Next, let the strong arm of the State law be invoked to protect the sheep from the abominable nuisance of dogs, so justly complained of in all quarters. Further, let the question as to the best mode of checking intemperinternal development) be discussed. Also let some plan be devised by which English capitalists will be protected from those who so often sell them land beyond its fair mar-which result. The above suggestions touch upon questions which naturally arise in the minds of those intending to emigrate, and whose movements will be influenced by our actions, and whose assistance may prove so valuable in unfolding the resources of this healthy and lovely country.
